

Workplace injuries may happen by accident, but great medical outcomes don't. So we look for every opportunity to gain faster initial medical care, reduce employee uncertainty, and gain access to the best medical providers.

It starts simply with full communication to employees of their injury benefits coverage and where to find medical care BEFORE a workplace injury occurs. Then, in their time of need, employees are not forced to “doctor-shop”, pick from a list, or fall prey to medical providers with a sketchy past. Physicians and PA's are routinely vetted upfront and monthly for board orders and confirmation that their certificates and licenses are current. Account setup supports fast and fair payment of medical bills. We also help ensure medical providers have information on the availability of modified duty, with an appreciation for work as an effective treatment modality in appropriate cases. And most of the same, efficient claims administration procedures found in other employer-sponsored benefit programs apply.

All of this (and more) supports fast, fair and hassle-free medical care by the same primary and specialist providers you would want your child, spouse or parent to see if they were injured on the job.
